PETITIONS FOR MORE PAVEMENT

Effort Will be Made to Brick Parts of Perkins, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth.

MAKES CONTINUOUS STREET

Signatures Being Obtained and Will be Presented to Commissioners
—Under Three-Mile Law.

On top of the announcement yesterday that petitions to pave First street under the three-mile gravel road law were being circulated, comes the word that several petitions to pave Perkins, a portion of Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets, under the same statute, are being circulated. Four or five papers have been prepared and are being signed freely today.

According to the petitions, the improvement will begin at the corner of Perkins and Second streets and will extend north to the corner of Sixth street, thence around the avenue in Sixth street to Seventh, meandering in a northwesterly direction, as the street runs, to Eighth and then on northwest to a point a short distance over the corporation line where the improvement will be stopped.

Te irregular course of the proposed improvement is due to the fact that the bricking must be done on those streets or it can not be accomplished under the three-mile gravel road law. The street must end with an improved roadway and must connect with a township pike. If the bricking were done on Perkins street alone, the street would not connect with a township pike. The southern terminus of the improvement will be Second street as it will soon be improved, while First is not.

As in the case of the First street petition fifty signatures will be necessary for the commissioners to consider the petition but an attempt will be made to get many more than that. It is necessary to give the commissioners a fifteen days' notice, so that the petition will not come up at their April meeting. Bound macadam will be used outside the corporation line.

SHOT GUN WOUND PROVED FATAL

Eli Ireland Died Today at the Home of Jesse Morris After Having Arm Amputated.

DEVELOPED INTO LOCKJAW

Eli Ireland, who was accidentally shot in the left arm while asleep on the barn floor at the country residence of Jesse Morris, nrth of the city, Monday evening, March 20, died today at one o'clock. At the time it was thought his arm could be saved but later developments required amputation, which was done Tuesday afternoon. Since that time Ireland contracted lockjaw and since the operation little hope had been expressed for his recovery. He had been employed at the Morris farm for some time. The exact cause of the accident is not known but it is thought he kicked the trigger of the gun with his foot.

Ireland was 40 years old and is survived by a widow. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the residence. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

FIVE SENIORS GRADUATE

Charles A. Greathouse Delivered the Principal Address.

The commencement exercises of the Raleigh high school senior class were held last night in the Lyceum hall in Raleigh. Charles A. Greathouse, superintendent of public instruction, delivered the principal address and his remarks were well received by the large audience. Wagoner's orchestra of this city furnished the music. There were five members of this year's class who graduated. They were the Misses Goldie Davis and Margaret Laughlin, and Gilbert Miner, Carlton Legg and Meredith Hall.

NATHAN WEEKS MAY NOT LIVE

Rush County's Representative to Last Legislature is Critically Ill With Heart Disease.

IS COMPLICATED BY DROPSY

Nathan Weeks, representative from this county in the last session of the General Assembly, is in a critical condition and it is feared that he can not live many days. He is suffering with heart trouble which has caused his health to be very poor in recent years. Members of the family are at his bedside constantly and physicians express the opinion that he may expire at any time. Mr. Weeks is suffering with additional complications from dropsy. It is said that his body is swelling and that the time for his demise is not far distant. Mr. Weeks was actively engaged in business here until a few years ago when his poor health made it necessary for him to retire.

SHOOTS UNUSUAL SPECIMEN OF DUCK

Fred Sohn Kills Great Northern Driver Along Banks of Big Blue River Near Carthage.

VERY UNCOMMON FOR CLIMATE

While out duck hunting along Big Blue river near his home a few miles from Carthage Wednesday, Fred Sohn, shot what he believed to be a very common ordinary duck, which is generally found in this climate. After closer inspection, he discovered that the specimen was somewhat different from those here and he took it to Carthage where he exhibited the unusual bird. He found that it was a Great Northern Driver, which is seldom ever found in the United States.

The bird is usually found in the British Isles being a member of the Grebe family and its presence thus far from its native haunts is credited to the high currents which have prevailed. When pursued by hunters these birds dive deep to protect themselves, so it is said. Mr. Sohn took his prize to Indianapolis to learn its commercial value. The bird measured 28 inches from tip to tail, its wings spread 52 inches and it weighed over 6 pounds. Its plumage was beautiful, the breast being white and the back a glossy black dotted with white. Mr. Sohn will have the fowl mounted and will sell it.

SIXTH WINS TWO OUT OF THREE

But Miss Gladys Titsworth of This City is One From This District
Who Fails.

MISSPELLED WORD "IMPOSTOR"

Naomi Frank of Greenfield and Levi Litzenberger Finish Second and Third Respectively.

There is some consolation in the fact that two of the State's champion spellers are from the Sixth district even if Rush county's representative was the only one of the three from this district who misspelled a word before the last three remained on the floor at the State spelling "bee" in Indianapolis yesterday. Ardella Rose Salb, 14 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Salb of Jasper, Dubois county, which is located in the Third congressional district, was the winner of the "bee." Little Miss Naomi Frank of Greenfield finished second, and Levi Litzenberger of Middletown, Henry county, was the third from the last on the floor and ranks in the class of the "three best spellers." Miss Gladys Titsworth, daughter of John A. Titsworth of this city, the district delegate from Rush county, was the sixth one to be "spelled down."

Miss Titsworth misspelled the word "impostor" and was compelled to take her seat. She spelled it "imposter" the way she understood the word from the pronunciation. Local people say that the word was not properly pronounced, else Miss Titsworth would have not failed on that. The Rushville girl has been working diligently in preparation for the contest and was deeply grieved that she could make a mistake on such a simple word. She believes that she could have withstood the test much longer. (Continued on Page Four.)

MARRIED IN 1859; GOT PAPERS TODAY

Allen R. Wilson of Vernon, Ind., Got Certificate From County Clerk—Peculiar Incident.

SAVED HIS WIFE TROUBLE

A peculiar incident took place today in the county clerk's office. Allen B. Wilson of Vernon, Ind., called and wished to obtain a marriage certificate. He was married here on December 29, 1859, to Elizabeth Dellinger. At that time no certificates were issued and the clerk's record was all that was used. Mr. Wilson was here on business today and explained to the clerk that he thought perhaps it would save his wife some trouble in obtaining a pension after he was dead. He said he was now seventy-three years old and thought he had only a few more years to live. His wife could have obtained the certificate but now he has saved her the trouble. It is not very often that the clerk has to consult the records as far back as this, especially since both parties are living.

RECITES TALE OF BALLOON FLIGHT

R. G. Howard, Famous Pilot, Here
Today, Tells of Harrowing Experiences in Gale.

CHARLES TEVIS WAS WITH HIM

Rushville People Will Recall When Air Craft Was Lost World's Record Was Made.

G. R. Howard of Cincinnati, Ohio, member of the New York Aero club, and one of the most prominent and best known pilots in the United States today was here today and talked interestingly of his wild ride across Lake Erie in a balloon last November when he was accompanied by Charles V. Tevis, son of Dr. V. W. Tevis of this city, and Will Corey, a Cincinnati newspaper man. Mr. Tevis at that time was Sunday editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Many people will remember the thrilling experience which Charles Tevis had in the balloon flight across the States over and back the full length of Lake Erie in the teeth of one of the worst storms that ever occurred on any of the great lakes. Later a feature story by Charles Tevis appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer, which gave a detailed account of the harrowing flight and which was read with much interest by local people. Incidentally Mr. Howard, the pilot of the balloon, made the world's record even though he and his companions faced death many times that night from all of the elements that combined to make it the worst storm that ever raged on Lake Erie.

Mr. Howard tells the story of the flight with awe as he recalls the harrowing details of that terrible night. His balloon was entered in the races at Latonia, Ky., and Will Corey, at that time a cartoonist on the Cincinnati Enquirer, was with him.

HAREM SKIRT MAKES DEBUT

Was Donned by Clerk at Kennedy &
Casady Dry Goods Store
Today.

WORN TO MILLINERY OPENINGS

"Creation" is Most Unassuming Thing and Would Never be Recognized on the Streets.

The celebrated "Harem" skirt has arrived in Rushville, but it is in such a modulated form that the closest observing man would never recognize it if he should meet it coming down the middle of the paved street. It has the appearance of a very ordinary skirt and is not half so extreme as many of the "hobbles" which have been worn on the streets of Rushville.

The new creation, which, according to the firm's press agents, has set all New York wild and which was conceived in Paris, is on display at the Kennedy & Casady dry goods store. It was shown in the window this morning, lifeless and silent, but this afternoon, it took on new life, when one of the women clerks donned it. It was shown in the store this afternoon and the woman clerk planned to visit all of the millinery openings this afternoon or this evening.

The clerk may be able to visit all of the stores and the spring bonnet purchasers will be none the wiser unless they are warned that the terrible pantaloons skirt is among them. It is so modest that it is a shame that the poor thing has ever been given such a name as "harem." It is unpretentious and unassuming and would not "offend the taste of the most fastidious" in the vernacular of the circus bill.

Pantaloons skirts have been pictured as near like men's trousers as possible. Although such skirts may have been made and may have been worn in New York they are not being displayed in Rushville. The skirt resembles the legs of men's trousers about half way to the knees, but that is not visible. Two large panels, one in front and one in the back, are made on the skirt so that the pantaloons effect is entirely lost. It can be seen only by lifting the panel and might be noticeable while the fair wearer is walking, if she took rather mannish steps. Of course it is not necessary to take such steps because you have on a pantaloons skirt.

FIRE DESTROYS CLOTHING

Blaze of Unknown Origin in Home of Jesse Kelley.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a large amount of wearing apparel at the home of Jesse Kelley, about one-quarter of a mile east of Falmouth, last night. Mr. Kelley lives on the Ben Perry farm and from what could be learned, only the clothing burned. It is said that the blaze was extinguished in time to prevent the house from being destroyed.

SEES HAREM SKIRT.

New Castle Courier: The much talked of harem skirt, or rather the New York interpretation of the famous Parisian creation, has been seen but not admired in New Castle. The latest craze was on exhibition for a few hours Tuesday afternoon in the Lander Cloak and Suit House window and to state that it attracted attention expresses it but mildly.

* COLORED EASTERN STAR *
* GIVES ENTERTAINMENT. *

Bathsheba Chapter No. 37 O. E. S. gave a fine entertainment Wednesday night in the colored Masonic hall, and it drew the largest crowd that has assembled among the colored people for a similar function at any time during the season. The hall was literally packed, and it taxed the ingenuity of Clint Marshall, sentinel of the lodge, to care for the inpouring stream of people.

The occasion was the giving of a play called "The Old Maids' Association." It had been eagerly looked forward to, and tickets had been struck and sold, and, withal, the affair was well organized. Besides, the personality of the performers had led the people to expect much, for the very best talent for dramatic work was enlisted in the affair.

The performers were the Mistresses Meleta Bundrant, Caroline Williams, Agathia Leggett, Loduskie Tracy, Ella Smith, Sallie Clark, Corinne Easley, Moanin Ramey, Pinkie Bundrant and the Misses Cora Smith, Fannie Ramey, Nannie Leggett, Ida Miller, and Prof. J. H. Williams.

The players showed the effect of careful preparation, for they moved through their respective parts with the ease and precision of veterans. The humor of the play was finely put to the fore, and the big audience was in an uproar from the beginning to the end. The costuming was carefully arranged, the stage setting effectively planned, all admirably contributing to the general effect of the acting. The whole affair was a splendid compliment to the character, talent and progressiveness of Bathsheba Chapter.

The play was given for the benefit of the Chapter, and as such, was a pronounced success. Supper was served in the hall before the play, and refreshments afterwards, and several of the leading citizens took occasion to purchase meals and thus encourage the growth of this praiseworthy order among the colored people of the city. It is in good shape and growing, numbering among its numbers the best colored people of the city.

Lesson I.—Second Quarter, For April 2, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings v, 1-14. Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text, Isa. xlv, 22—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is a most interesting and profitable study to search out in the Old Testament all the people and the events which the Lord Jesus mentioned in His teaching and to remember that Jesus of the New Testament is none other than the Lord God of the prophets, whose goings forth have been from of old, from the days of eternity (Mic. v, 2, margin). In Luke iv, 27, He mentions both Naaman and Elisha, and of course that includes the little maid of Israel and all the other people and incidents of the story.

In chapter iv, 8, we read of a great woman, and now it is a great man and honorable, a deliverer and mighty man of valor, but a leper. He was a great man in the eyes of his fellows, but had he lived in Israel he would have had to live without the camp.

Leprosy is a wonderful type of sin, and, it matters not how great a man may be in other men's eyes, if he is an unsaved sinner he is a child of wrath, dead in sins, without Christ and without God (Eph. ii, 1, 3, 12), and those who die in that condition are forever shut out (Rev. xxi, 8, 27). In as seemingly strange ways as the Lord brought healing to Naaman He still wins sinners to Himself. He may use a captive maid, humble servants, waters of Jordan, etc., but He is always seeking to save the lost, not willing that any should perish (II Pet. iii, 9).

The little captive maid stolen away from her home might have so hated her captors as to wish them evil and be glad that Naaman was a leper, but she evidently had the spirit of Him who taught to love our enemies and to be subject even to perverse people (Matt. v, 44; I Pet. ii, 18). So she pitied Naaman and told of the prophet in Samaria, of whom she knew or had heard many wonderful things. From the slowness of believers to tell of the Lord Jesus and His wonderful redemption the world has a right to conclude that they have nothing wonderful to tell.

The result of the little maid's testimony was that the king of Syria sent Naaman to the king of Israel with a letter and a lot of silver and gold and raiment, asking from the king health for his servant. There was a double mistake in sending to the king instead of the prophet and in supposing that money could purchase heaven's gifts. The maid had spoken of the prophet in Samaria, not the king, and a true prophet is a spokesman for God. But royalty can only deal with royalty and, as a rule, has no use for poor men even if they are prophets. Such pride must be laid low before God can help such people.

The king of Israel thought that the king of Syria was seeking a quarrel with him in making such a request, and he rent his clothes. Elisha, hearing of it, said to the king, "Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel." So Naaman came in all his pomp and pride to the door of the house of Elisha, thinking that the prophet would make a display of his power and in some striking way give him health. When the prophet did not deign even to come to the door, but sent a messenger, saying, "Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean," Naaman was so angry that he turned and went away in a rage.

When we remember that even Abraham's thoughts brought him trouble (Gen. xx, 11) and Mary's supposing gave her three days of sorrow (Luke ii, 44-46) we do not wonder so much at the result of Naaman's thoughts. Simple faith in God and prompt obedience is the only safe way. Servants sometimes have more sense than their masters, and so it proved in this case, for, as they reasoned with Naaman that he would gladly have done some great thing, then why not do this simple thing? He went and did as Elisha had said, and his flesh became as the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

There was no special value or efficacy in the waters of Jordan, but it was to Naaman a lesson in humility and obedience and submission to the true God. In the matter of salvation for the sinner there is only one way, one name, one sacrifice, one precious blood, and he who disdains it cannot be saved. Naaman, being healed, returned to Elisha with a good confession, "Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth but in Israel" (15), and he would fain have rewarded the prophet. How grand is the dignity of the soul that can turn down earth's silver and gold and say to such as Naaman, "As the Lord liveth before whom I stand I will receive none." Compare Gen. xiv, 22-23; Dan. v, 17. See also the rich young ruler who was told by our Lord to give all that he had to the poor (Luke xviii, 22) and then follow Jesus, thus revealing to him his own heart, and that his possessions were his god, and that he was breaking the first commandment. I expect that Judas Iscariot was troubled by our Lord's words to the rich ruler, and we are quite certain that Gehazi was troubled by Elisha's rejection of Naaman's wealth. Consider the result of his covetousness (verse 27) and remember the words of our Lord in Luke xii, 15, "Take heed and beware of covetousness, for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 2, 1911.

Topic.—Lessons from great lives.—IV. Joshua.—Josh. i, 1-11. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

"The proper study of mankind is man." Few studies are more profitable. No man ever yet lived whose life cannot teach us some useful lesson. The lives of some men can teach us many. Intent upon making the most of our own lives, we should seek instruction from the great characters of history. Who were they? What talents did they possess? What obstacles did they overcome? What was the secret of their success? Wherein did they fail? Approaching these men of the past with such questions upon our lips, we are surprised to find what valuable messages they have to give us. Many young men and many young women have come to be morally strong and have been inspired to high and noble endeavor by reading the biography of some noble, heroic soul.

Such a soul was Joshua. He filled a great man's place in a great way. He accomplished a most difficult work. The history of his life teaches many truths. Think of these four only:

1. The value of fidelity. For years Joshua had occupied an inferior position. He was known as Moses' minister. What his duties were we do not know. It is enough to know that he accepted them and fulfilled them in the spirit of faithfulness. Because he had a faithful past God made him leader of his people Israel. Do you fill an humble place? In what spirit are you filling it? You will never hear God's voice saying "Come up higher!" unless you are putting your best into your present task. Them that honor God, God will honor. "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee the crown of life."

2. Joshua accepted his work as from God. It was God who had called him to it. That gave him power in it. That made him triumph over its difficulties. Has God called you to some work? Then you can do it. You can do anything that God wants you to do. A divine call means a divine equipment. Think of Paul. Think of Luther. Think of all men who have achieved great things for God. If you accept your work as from God, undertake it in His strength, carry it on by His help, you will abundantly succeed.

3. Joshua had God's presence. "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee nor forsake thee." That was the great secret of Joshua's courage—yes, and of his success. It is told of the soldiers of Napoleon that when he was on the heights, watching them as they fought, the knowledge that his eye was upon them inspired them to noble and heroic deeds. But when he came down into their midst his presence made them invincible. Our Lord does not watch us from the heights. "I am with you always." Do we practice His presence? Do we look to Him for strength? That means success, both in our character and in our work.

4. Joshua had God's promise of success. Therefore, weak though he felt himself to be, hard as he knew his task would prove, he did not despair. God wants no man to fail as a Christian, either in his life or in his work. But certain conditions must be honored if we are to succeed. We must accept our life and work as from God. We must depend upon Him for guidance and for grace. We must treasure His word in our hearts and believe He is with us. The conditions are very simple, but they mean a life surrendered to do God's will. Are you living such a life?

BIBLE READINGS.

Belief in the Movement.

I believe in Christian Endeavor because it is the thing that is needed in the church. Nothing has yet been devised that can take its place. The Sunday school is the place where the young are taught the principles and the lessons of the Bible, but the Christian Endeavor society is the place where they are given the opportunity to put these principles into practice. They are not only given the opportunity; they are organized into committees for the express purpose to show them how they may serve the Lord Christ. Just as industrial education makes better workmen so does Christian Endeavor, which is the practice school of the church, make more efficient Christians.

I believe in Christian Endeavor because it is trying to bridge the gap between the Sunday school and church membership. I believe in it because of its hope, because of the ideal of service it presents, because of its loyalty to the church, because of its loyalty to the denomination and because of its broad fellowship with all that love the Lord Jesus.—Rev. R. P. Anderson.

You drink Coffee every morning—it gives you the start for the day. It means a whole lot to have a just-right cup of coffee—the kind you like. It means so much it will pay you to go right into this advertisement and read the fine print.

Nothing is more true than the fact that tastes differ. Then isn't it strange that no other Coffee House has ever offered coffee in different Blends to suit the different Coffee tastes? We, being the largest and oldest house of coffee experts in the world, are in position to know what those Blends are that meet the tastes of the people in America. We have proved there are five great coffee tastes, and after a generation of experiment, we have put up the five Blends that meet the different tastes of coffee drinkers. No other coffee house has had the experience, the facilities and the volume of business to make this possible.

Golden Sun Coffee is perfectly ripened, perfectly roasted, perfectly blended and perfectly packed coffee. No coffee could be more uniformly good, more ideally put up—in air-tight pound packets, hermetically sealed at the right moment after roasting, to preserve for your table all the rich, natural oil-foam of the coffee berry.

Golden Sun Coffee

Five Different Blends—One to Suit Your Taste

Ask your grocer to see the five different packages of Golden Sun Coffee. He will also show you our Golden Sun Table of Tastes, so that you can readily select your particular Blend. You may find that you have been paying 10c to 20c a pound too much for the cup of coffee you like best.

CAUTION: Coffee sold by irresponsible peddlers, or kept in open bins, fails in richness, purity and strength, and gives you much less than you pay for, regardless of the price asked. Every experienced, conscientious grocer will tell you how true this statement is.

The Farmers' Vote.

The option elections over the State during the last few days stand as mute evidence of what Governor Thomas R. Marshall and his "wet" legislature did at the meeting of the General Assembly this year. It is also only a forecast of what the rural people of Indiana will do, when the time comes to go to the polls and vote their sentiment on the liquor question.

It is apparent that the country people of the State have been defeated. They showed by their vote on the temperance question two years ago, when elections were held under the county option law that they did not want the saloon. It was the farmers who swung the safe majority for the "drys" in every instance and it is that class of people, principally, which does not want the open saloon in its midst to tempt its sons who visit the county seats.

It has been argued, and the same argument is still used, that the farmer of Rush county, for instance, has no right to decide what shall take place in Rushville. That is the weakest and flimsiest argument that was ever imagined by a hair brain youth.
 It is useless to even attempt to point out its fallacy when it is plainly evident. To assert that the farmer of Rush county is not directly influenced by what takes place in Rushville is silly. Rushville is his home city. It is to him what any large city is to a suburbanite. He does his trading here and he seeks much of his amusement here. He has a voice in what shall take place here if he is to be injured or in anyway influenced by it.

Even though the liquor people may attempt to show the farmer that he has no right to vote on the question, whether or not saloons shall be in Rushville, the farmer will go ahead and vote as he sees fit. It is impossible to convince the temperance rural-ite that he does not have a right to say whether or not his son shall be tempted by the open saloon when he comes to the city on Saturday for a day of pleasure. He will show them at the polls one year from next November.

Connersville News: Special judges under the new law are to receive twelve dollars a day instead of five as formerly. It is probable that the old fee was too small, but the boost looks a little steep for a legislature getting into power on a promise of economy.

There were fewer votes cast at the Greensburg option election than there were for mayor the last time, which is rare as the rule elsewhere has been the reverse.

DEATH COMES TO MRS. L. M. STRATTON

Former Resident of This County
 Passed Away in Indianapolis
 After an Operation.

HOME WAS NEAR WALDRON

Mrs. L. M. Stratton, 39 years old, of near Waldron, Shelby county, formerly a resident of this county, died yesterday in St. Vincent's hospital in Indianapolis, after an operation.

Mrs. Stratton was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Haehl of this county, and had resided in Liberty township, Shelby county, for about five years. The Strattons formerly lived at Manilla, where Mr. Stratton conducted a harness shop. When he left that town he moved on his farm in Shelby county, where he and his family have since resided. Among the surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. E. H. D. Young and Miss Elnora Haehl of Shelbyville, and two brothers A. G. Haehl of Indianapolis and Edward Haehl of this county.

had she put in the "o" for the "e."

Little Miss Titsworth, although only thirteen years old, is a very unusual girl. She is in the seventh grade in school. In the county as well as in the district contest at Con-nersville the local girl spelled against girls much older than she. Many of them in the contests have been high school pupils and much further advanced in school. Most of the contestants in the State "bee" were fifteen and sixteen years old.

The other two representatives of this district missed rather simple words. Naomi Frank of Greenfield, who was the last to be "spelled down" missed the word "hereditary." Levi Litzberger of Henry county, one of ten boys among the contestants, misspelled the word "recurrence."

As a final test, after all her opponents had been forced to their seats, Miss Salb, the winner, spelled "falsetto" correctly and was awarded a gold medal and a dictionary by John I. Huffman, deputy state superintendent of public instruction.

For more than three hours, from 2:20 o'clock to 5:30 o'clock, the thirty-eight children, ranging in age from 10 to 15 years, and representing Indianapolis school children in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, held an audience which packed the House chamber, while they battled for the spelling honors of the State. Approximately 5,000 words were pronounced by Miss Anna Brochhausen of the Indianapolis public schools and J. Walter Dunn, State manager of the Indiana Reading Circle, who gave out the words, before the long line of "best spellers" dwindled to three children.

Jennings Gordon of Nappanee was the first speller to miss a word.
 He spelled the word "traveler" and put an additional "t" in, which is permissible in practically all dictionaries, but which is barred by the Alexander speller. This first break in the long row of children came after twenty minutes of successful spelling.

Bertha Howard of Bridgeport was the next to go down. She faltered on "precipitous" seven minutes after Gordon had been spelled down, and was forced to take her seat. Clara Gilbert of Monroe was the third to fall, missing "Ilium." So it went down the long line, none of the words missed being in common use.

Such little-used words as "succulent," "eligible," "impostor," "analogous," "beseech," "chrysalids," "mademoiselle," "jaunty," "blotches," "peered," "bonyant," "courtier," "perchance," "equilaterals," "assiduously," "aliquot," "gelid," "trapezoid," "feigning" and "erypt" were those on which the school children made their errors.

Children from the same county were not allowed to sit together in the line. In the long list of words was a written test of fifty words, in which but one child failed to spell all correctly.

Vivian Lewis of Argos, representing the Thirteenth District, was the only winner in the district contests who failed to appear for yesterday's test. No reason was given for the absence.

The members of the Modern Art club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. H. H. Allen in East Third street yesterday afternoon with an All Fool's day party. The guests arrived at the front door and there found printed in large letters "Go to the back door." When the guests went to the back door they found the inscription "Now go back to the front door and come in." All of the guests were compelled to wear dunce caps during the afternoon. Light refreshments were served and a musical program was given.

The Sorosis club held a very delightful and profitable meeting one afternoon this week at the home of Mrs. Greene Thompson in Glenwood, says the Connersville News. The club members are making a study of the United States this year and the program consisted of two papers. Mrs. Elmer Caldwell gave "The New South," while Miss Florence Elliott followed with a complete sketch of "New Orleans." A lively conversation of current topics completed the session. The hostess served an appetizing luncheon during the social hour. Miss Ruby Smiley will entertain the club at their meeting which occurs April 11.

AMUSEMENTS

The Lyceum Bio-Scenograph company will give the big double show at the Star Grand theater the remainder of this week. A large program of eleven different films tonight, which will include a large variety of subjects. A feature film will be "Venice."

The Vaudet, for the first film will show a Yankee picture, the subject of which is "The Insane Heiress." The story told is a pathetic one and quite out of the ordinary. The other picture is a Nestor, "The Girl From the East." It is a comedy picture. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Palace will show the usual two reels of pictures tonight. The first is a Pathe film, "Max is Stuck Up." This is another of the series in which Max, the funny man is the hero. In this picture he is seen at his best and does some clever stunts. The other picture is an Edison, "The Police Force of New York City." The picture shows the inside workings of a great metropolitan police force. A new illustrated song will be sung.

GOING OUT LIKE A LION

March is Upholding Old Adage About Mary's Lamb Business.

The old adage, given considerable credence by the older people, that when March comes in like a lamb it will go out like a lion, is holding good this year. The month came in quietly and calmly and continued quiet, warm and balmy a greater part of the month until Wednesday when it began to get blustery and kept getting worse until Thursday morning when snow and rain and wind combined to make a very disagreeable day. The indications are that the blustery weather will continue until the month is ushered out tonight at midnight.

CHAPTER XIII.

A Conference in the Dark.

The white rays of the distant arc light filtered through the half-drawn velvet hangings and laid a faintly illumined path across the ambassador's desk; the heavy leather chairs were mere impalpable blotches in the shadows; the cut-glass knobs of a mahogany cabinet caught the glint of light and reflected it dimly. Outside was the vague, indefinable night dome of a city asleep, unbroken by any sound that was distinguishable, until finally there came the distant boom of a clock. It struck twice.

Seated on a couch in one corner of the ambassador's office was Mr. Grimm. He was leaning against the high arm of leather, with his feet on the seat, thoughtfully nursing his knees. If his attitude indicated anything except sheer comfort, it was that he was listening. He had been there for two hours, wide-awake, and absolutely motionless. Five, ten, fifteen minutes more passed, and then Mr. Grimm heard the grind and whir of an automobile a block or so away, coming toward the embassy. Now it was in front.

"Honk! Honk-on-onk!" it called plaintively. "Honk-on-onk! Honk!" The signal! At last! The automobile went rushing on, full tilt, while Mr. Grimm removed his feet from the seat and dropped them noiselessly to the floor. Thus, with his hands on his knees, and listening, listening with every faculty strained, he sat motionless, peering toward the open door that led into the hall. The car was gone now, the sound of it swallowed up in the distance, still he sat there. It was obviously some noise in the house for which he was waiting.

Minute after minute passed, and still nothing. There was not even the whisper of a wind-stirred drapery. He was about to rise, when, suddenly, with no other noise than that of the sharp click of the switch, the electric lights in the room blazed up brilliantly. The glare dazzled Mr. Grimm with its blinding flood, but he didn't move. Then softly, almost in a whisper:

"Good evening, Mr. Grimm."

It was a woman's voice, pleasant, unsurprised, perfectly modulated. Mr. Grimm certainly did not expect it now, but he knew it instantly—there was not another quite like it in the wide, wide world—and though he was still blinking a little, he came to his feet courteously.

"Good morning, Miss Thorne," he corrected gravely.

Now his vision was clearing, and he saw her, a graceful figure, silhouetted against the rich green of the wall draperies. Her lips were curled the least bit, as if she might have been smiling, and her wonderful eyes reflected a glint of—of—was it amusement? The folds of her evening dress fell away from her, and one bare, white arm was extended, as her hand still rested on the switch.

"And you didn't hear me?" still in the half-whisper. "I didn't think you would. Now I'm going to put out the lights for an instant, while you pull the shades down, and then—then we must have a—conference."

The switch snapped. The lights died as suddenly as they had been born, and Mr. Grimm, moving noiselessly, visited each of the four windows in turn. Then the lights blazed brilliantly again.

"Just for a moment," Miss Thorne explained to him quietly, and she handed him a sheet of paper. "I want you to read this—read it carefully—then I shall turn out the lights again. They are dangerous. After that we may discuss the matter at our leisure."

Mr. Grimm read the paper while Miss Thorne's eyes questioned his impassive face. At length he looked up indolently, listlessly, and the switch snapped. She crossed the room and sat down; Mr. Grimm sat beside her. "I think," Miss Thorne suggested tentatively, "that that accounts perfectly for Monsieur Boissegur's disappearance."

"It gives one explanation, at least," Mr. Grimm assented musingly. "Kidnapped—held prisoner—fifty thousand dollars demanded for his safety and release." A pause. "And to whom, may I ask, was this demand addressed?"

"To Madame Boissegur," replied Miss Thorne. "I have the envelope in which it came. It was mailed at the general post office at half-past one o'clock this afternoon, so the canceling stamp shows, and the envelope was addressed, as the letter was written, on a typewriter."

"And how," inquired Mr. Grimm, "did you come into your possession?" He waited a little. "Why didn't Monsieur Rigolot report this development to me this afternoon when I was here?"

"Monsieur Rigolot did not inform you of it because he did not know of it himself," she replied, answering the last question first. "It came into my possession directly from the hands of Madame Boissegur—she gave it to me."

"Why?"

Mr. Grimm was peering through the inscrutable darkness, straight into her face—a white daub in the gloom, shapeless, indistinct.

"I have known Madame Boissegur for half a dozen years," Miss Thorne continued, in explanation. "We have been friends that long. I met her in Tokio, later in Berlin, and within a few weeks, here in Washington. You see I have traveled in the time I have been an agent for my government. Well, Madame Boissegur received this letter about half-past four o'clock this afternoon; and about half-past five she sent for me and placed it in my hands, together with the singular details following upon the ambassador's disappearance. So, it would seem that you and I are allies for this once, and the problem is already solved. There merely remains the task of finding and releasing the ambassador."

Mr. Grimm sat perfectly still. "And why," he asked, slowly, "are you here now?"

"For the same reason that you are here," she replied readily, "to see for myself if the—the person who twice came here at night—once for the ambassador's letters and once for his cigarettes—would, by any chance, make another trip. I knew you were here of course."

"You knew I was here," repeated Mr. Grimm musingly. "And may I—"

"Just as you knew that I, or some one, at least, had entered this house a few minutes ago," she interrupted. "The automobile horn outside was a signal, wasn't it? Hastings was in the car? Or was it Blair or Johnson?"

Mr. Grimm did not say.

"Didn't you anticipate any personal danger when you entered?" he queried instead. "Weren't you afraid I might shoot?"

"No."

There was a long silence. Mr. Grimm still sat with his elbows on his knees, staring at the vague white spot which was Miss Thorne's face and bare neck. One of her white arms hung at her side like a pallid serpent, and her hand was at rest on the seat of the couch.

"It seems, Miss Thorne," he said at length casually, "that our paths of duty are inextricably tangled. Twice previously we have met under circumstances that were more than strange, and now—this! Whatever injustice I may have done you in the past by my suspicious has, I hope, been forgiven; and in each instance we were able to work side by side toward a conclusion. I am wondering now if this singular affair will take a similar course."

He paused. Miss Thorne started to speak, but he silenced her with a slight gesture of his hand.

"It is only fair to you to say that we—that is, the Secret Service—have learned many things about you," he resumed in the same casual tone. "We have, through our foreign agents, traced you step by step from Rome to Washington. We know that you are, in a way, a representative of a sovereign of Europe; we know that you were on a secret mission to the Spanish court, perhaps for this sovereign, and remained in Madrid for a month; we know that from there you went to Paris, also on a secret mission—perhaps the same—and remained there for three weeks; we know that you met diplomatic agents of those governments later in London. We know all this; we know the manner of your coming to this country; of your coming to Washington. But we don't know why you are here."

Again she started to speak, and again she stopped her.

"We don't know your name, but that is of no consequence. We do know that in Spain you were Senora Casavant, in Paris Mademoiselle d'Aubnon, in London Miss Jane Kellogg, and here Miss Isabel Thorne. We realize that exigencies arise in your calling, and mine, which make changes of name desirable, necessary even, and there is no criticism of that. Now as the representative of your government—rather a government—you have a right to be here, although unaccompanied; you have a right to remain here as long as your acts are consistent with our laws; you have a right to your secrets as long as they do not, directly or indirectly, threaten the welfare of this country. Now, why are you here?"

He received no answer; he expected none. After a moment he went on:

"Admitting that you are a secret agent of Italy, admitting everything that you claim to be, you haven't convinced me that you are not the person who came here for the letters and cigarettes. You have said nothing to prove to my satisfaction that you are not the individual I was waiting for tonight."

"You don't mean that you suspect—?" she began in a tone of amazement.

"I don't mean that I suspect anything," he interposed. "I mean merely that you haven't convinced me. There's nothing inconsistent in the fact that you are what you say you are, and that in spite of that, you came tonight for—"

He was interrupted by a laugh, a throaty, silvery note that he remembered well. His idle hands closed spasmodically, only to be instantly rehas played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

"Suppose, Mr. Grimm, I should tell you that immediately after Madame Boissegur placed the matter in my hands this afternoon, I went straight to your office to show this letter to you and ask for your assistance?" she inquired. "Suppose that I left my card for you with a clerk there on being informed that you were out—remember I knew you were on the case from Madame Boissegur—would that indicate anything except that I wanted to put the matter squarely before you, and work with you?"

"We will suppose that much," Mr. Grimm agreed.

"That is a statement of fact," Miss Thorne added. "My card, which you will find at your office, will show that. And when I left your office I went to the hotel where you live, with the same purpose. You were not there, and I left a card for you. And that is a statement of fact. It was not difficult, owing to the extraordinary circumstances, to imagine that you would be here tonight—just as you are—and I came here. My purpose, still, was to inform you of what I knew, and work with you. Does that convince you?"

"And how did you enter the embassy?" Mr. Grimm persisted.

"Not with a latch-key, as you did," she replied. "Madame Boissegur, at my suggestion, left the French window in the hall there unfastened, and I came in that way—the way, I may add, that Monsieur l'Ambassadeur went out when he disappeared."

"Very well!" commented Mr. Grimm, and finally: "I think, perhaps, I owe you an apology, Miss Thorne—another one. The circumstances now, as they were at our previous meeting, are so unusual that—is it necessary to go on?" There was a certain growing deference in his tone. "I wonder if you account for Monsieur Boissegur's disappearance as I do?" he inquired.

"I dare say," and Miss Thorne leaned toward him with sudden eagerness in her manner and voice. "Your theory is—?" she questioned.

"If we believe the servants we know that Monsieur Boissegur did not go out either by the front door or the rear," Mr. Grimm explained. "That being true the French window by which you entered seems to have been the way."

"Yes, yes," Miss Thorne interpolated. "And the circumstances attending the disappearance? How do you account for the fact that he went, evidently of his own will?"

"Precisely as you must account for it if you have studied the situation here as I have," responded Mr. Grimm. "For instance, sitting at his desk there—and he turned to indicate it—he could readily see out the windows overlooking the street. There is only a narrow strip of lawn between the house and the sidewalk. Now, if some one on the sidewalk, or—or—"

"In a carriage?" promptly suggested Miss Thorne.

"Or in a carriage," Mr. Grimm supplemented, "had attracted his attention—some one he knew—it is not at all unlikely that he rose, for no apparent reason, as he did do, passed along the hall—"

"And through the French window, across the lawn to the carriage, and not a person in the house would have seen him go out? Precisely! There seems no doubt that was the way," she mused. "And, of course, he must have entered the carriage of his own free will?"

"In other words, on some pretext or other, he was lured in, then made prisoner, and—"

He paused suddenly and his hand met Miss Thorne's warningly. The silence of the night was broken by the violent clatter of footsteps, apparently approaching the embassy. The noise was unmistakable—some one was running.

"The window!" Miss Thorne whispered.

She rose quickly and started to cross the room to look out; Mr. Grimm sat motionless, listening. An instant later and there came a tremendous crash of glass—the French window in the hallway by the sound—then rapid footsteps, still running along the hall. Mr. Grimm moved toward the door untruffed, perfectly self-possessed; there was only a narrowing of his eyes at the abruptness and clatter of it all. And then the electric lights in the hall flashed up.

Before Mr. Grimm stood a man, framed by the doorway, staring unseeing into the darkened room. His face was haggard and white as death; his mouth agape as if from exertion, and the lips bloodless; his eyes were widely distended as if from fright—clothing disarranged, collar unfastened and dangling.

"The ambassador!" Miss Thorne whispered thrillingly.

Boys Admit Attempt On Life of Teacher.

READ "YELLOW BACK" NOVELS

Not Only That, but They Smoked Cigarettes, and When One Was Dismissed From School He Planned to Waylay and Kill the Teacher, According to Admissions They Are Said to Have Made to Authorities.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., March 31.—Raymond E. Earl, aged fifteen, who is in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill Miss Ruth Fell, aged eighteen, a school teacher in the Johnson park schoolhouse in Harrison township, has made a confession. Earl, it is alleged, said his uncle, Hobart Bell, also aged fifteen, planned the attack and furnished him with the club, because Bell had been dismissed from the school by the teacher. He also said Bell broke into the school building and destroyed a number of the teacher's books and set fire to several cords of wood. Sheriff Slater went to Harrison township and arrested young Bell and placed him in jail. Bell admitted that Earl told the truth. Both boys read "yellow back" novels and smoke cigarettes.

LIBELOUS EGGS

Indiana Man Belittled His Wife in a Novel Fashion.

Indianapolis, March 31.—After a marriage of forty-one years, Dr. William Stewart and wife disagreed and Mrs. Stewart went to live with a married son. The doctor then began writing scurrilous sentences about his wife on hens' eggs and drew many cartoons on the eggs, she being the central figure. The appellate court has decided that a husband cannot use eggs for belittling his wife and affirmed a decree of divorce in her favor. The court says that the doctor's acts were as bad as if he had disseminated the libelous matter through handbills on the streets.

FENCED GRAVE YARD

Sullivan County Man Charged With Desecrating Cemetery.

Sullivan, Ind., March 31.—Adam Miller, former sheriff of Sullivan county, is on trial charged with defacing and tearing away gravestones in the Cummins cemetery, and pasturing his horses there. Old soldiers are pushing the case. The affidavit against Miller was filed last Memorial day when a committee of veterans went to the cemetery to decorate some of the graves of their comrades and found it fenced in, and hogs rooting up the mounds.

ROBBED MANY HOUSES

But at Last This Man's Little Game Was Stopped.

Lafayette, Ind., March 31.—Herbert Lee, a dentist of Des Moines, was arrested here for a series of robberies in which he stole jewelry, watches and money amounting to $1,000. He represented himself as an agent for a magazine at houses at which he called, and at others, where no one was at home, he entered and robbed them. His conviction came after his arrest and confession. He had been a week and had all the stolen jewelry on his person.

Wagered Whiskers on Election. Greensburg, Ind., March 31.—As a result of the "wets" winning the local option election in Greensburg, Weedon McKim, a well-known citizen, will lose his whiskers. Mr. McKim was so confident that the "drys" would win that he wagered his whiskers on the result. He has worn them for years.

Endured Terrific Shock.

Logansport, Ind., March 31.—John Grable, an employe of the city electric light department, received a shock of 2,200 volts while working on a pole, and was able to resume work. Grable recently took the place of Harry Crægun, who was killed by a shock of only 200 volts.

Suicide of Millionaire Wife.

Columbia City, Ind., March 31.—Mrs. S. J. Peabody, wife of the millionaire lumberman and banker of this city, shot herself through the left breast and died. Mrs. Peabody had been in a melancholy state for two years.

Neeley's Murderer Convicted.

Independence, Kan., March 31.—Guilty, was the verdict of the jury in the case of A. A. Truskett, a wealthy business man of Caney, Kan., accused of murdering J. D. S. Neeley, a millionaire oil operator of Indiana and Ohio.

Suicide of an Old Man.

Columbus, Ind., March 31.—Charles Varmen, aged eighty, drowned himself in a pond on an abandoned stone quarry on his farm near Hope. Poor health is the only reason given for suicide.

HAPPY RESULTS.

Have Made Many Rushville Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Rushville citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Rushville by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Jacob Roth, West First Street, R. F. D. No. 4, Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been a standard remedy in my family for the past two years and I am firmly convinced that there is no other kidney medicine on the market equal to them. We have taken Doan's Kidney Pills time and time again and they have never failed to give relief from kidney and bladder trouble. I have such great faith in the curative powers of this preparation that I never fail to speak a good word for it when I hear anyone complaining of kidney trouble."

Strange Disappearance of Young Girl From Philadelphia Suburb.

Philadelphia, March 31.—The disappearance of pretty nineteen-year-old Phoebe Callum from the home of her father, a wealthy metal dealer at Glenside, has mystified the police. Shortly before 11 o'clock Monday night she went to bed. A little later a member of the family having occasion to go to the door, saw her in her night clothing. Three hours afterward, according to information in possession of the police, the girl was seen walking on Fifty-second street near Market. Beyond this no trace has been obtained.

Miners' Families Terrorized.

Harrisburg, Ill., March 31.—Sheriff Mooneyhan and a posse of deputies went to Muddy, a mining community two miles north of here, where a race riot was terrorizing miners' families. Several houses and a poolroom conducted by negroes were burned. The outbreak followed the killing of John Devine, white, by Alexander Dickson, in a poolroom. The murderer has not been captured.

Legislators Want More Money.

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—The house finance committee has reported out with a favorable recommendation house bill 542, which provides that members of the general assembly shall receive a salary of $5,000 a term, 20 cents a mile mileage, and $100 a session for stationery.

Rheumatism Comes From Bad Kidneys

Once Your Kidneys Work Properly, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease and Bladder Trouble Disappear. How To Cure Yourself.

It is no longer necessary to spend months and months undergoing a complicated treatment for rheumatism, kidney or bladder trouble, or spend a good many dollars in doctors' bills. A new treatment can now be obtained which seems to act more like a marvel than a medicine. This treatment has produced such satisfactory results in a short time that it is now guaranteed from first to last. There should be no more doubt about the rapid cure of rheumatism, no fears of the fatal termination of treacherous kidney disease or dropsy.

Rheumatism means nothing more nor less than that your kidneys do not work properly. Your blood passes through the kidneys hundreds of times a day to be filtered and purified. When the kidneys are weak, the poisons are not taken out of the blood as they should be. This leads to various diseases, such as rheumatism, terrible Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy and bladder trouble.

The new guaranteed treatment is Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills. One day's use of them will prove their remarkable effect. M. T. Ridenour of Lima, Ohio, says: "When I feel bad in my back, I just take a couple of Derby's Kidney Pills and get immediate relief."

If you have rheumatism anywhere, back pains, cloudy, foul urine, pains in the bladder, Bright's disease or diabetes, put your whole confidence in Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and you will not be disappointed.

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are sold at all drug stores—25 and 50 cents, or we will send them direct from the laboratory of Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich., prepaid if you wish. If you want to try them first, just ask your druggist to give you a free sample package.

Our Ten Commandments.

Rule 1. Don't Lie—it wastes our time and yours. We'll sure find out in the end. Buy a Ford Car and you won't have to lie about your tire expense.

Rule 2. Do not Steal an automobile when you can buy a Model T Ford Turing Car for $780. It's cheaper to buy.

Rule 3. "Don't buy a Ford Car because it is cheap, but because it is the best." Henry Ford.

Rule 4. Ford Cars have proven themselves to wear better than any of them, because of the superior workmanship and material used in their construction. "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Rule 5. Vanadium steel is used in all axles and spindles, crankshaft and springs, is heat treated and does not crystallize. Wheels will not drop off when given the last strain. Remember the injunction, "Thou shalt not kill."

Rule 6. Henry Ford has led us out of the land of the wilderness as it were—out of the land of bondage of the Selden Patent and demonstrated that he is no false leader. Follow him and use Ford Cars.

Rule 7. When you talk Ford Automobile, put a four cycle, four cylinder, twenty horse power Ford engine into your talk and take off the muffler. It will do the work, fear not.

Rule 8. Covet not anything which is thy neighbors, but go and buy a Ford Car and enjoy life as he does.

Rule 9. Neither a borrower nor a lender be. Own a Ford Car and be happy in the land which the Lord, thy God giveth thee.

Rule 10. Buy a Ford Car so that your troubles may cease and your days be long upon the earth.

nati Times Star was to accompany him. The gale was so bad that none of the other balloons would venture up, so Mr. Tevis went with Howard and Corey, even though it was against the pilot's wishes as he did not care to go up with three men on in good weather not considering the storm that was brewing.

They left the ground at 7:10 one evening in November at Latonia and landed at Derby, N. Y., at four o'clock the next morning after having covered 579 miles in the most celebrated balloon flight in the history of aerial navigation. Mr. Howard says that they rose in the air easily and sailed northward. Their speed increased and they had not been in the air long until rain began to fall. Later the rain turned to hail and the occupants of the balloon were nearly frozen. But then their troubles were only beginning, according to the tale which Mr. Howard recited.

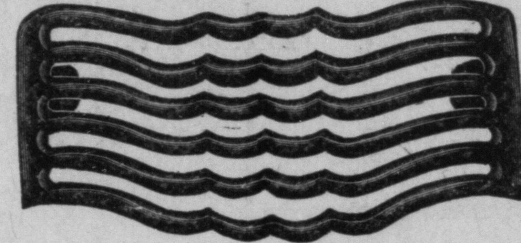

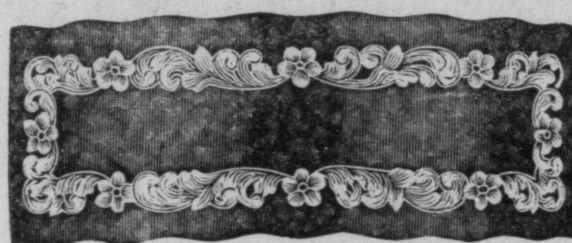

They sped on northward, recognizing many of the big cities of Ohio as they passed over them. The men were despairing of alighting before the night passed and had no idea where the terrible gale would blow them. They were almost numb with the cold due to the rush through the air and the heavy hail. The drop in temperature caused the water on the balloon to freeze and the valve was frozen up so that the gas could not be let out of the bag and allow them to descend. Icicles froze all over the balloon basket.

Toward midnight Mr. Howard said that he could hear a distant roar which he well recognized as Lake Erie. He said that Corey knew the meaning of the sound, but that Mr. Tevis, being inexperienced in aerial navigation, did not know the meaning of the sound. The balloon passed safely across the lake and went twenty miles inland to a Canadian town. The men in the balloon were relieved after they had crossed the lake without an accident, when they suddenly realized that the course of their balloon had been changed.

Before they could scarcely come to any conclusion as to what had taken place, they found that they were out on Lake Erie again. The compass showed that the balloon was traveling in an easterly direction and it then seemed imminent that they must traverse the full length of Lake Erie. That is what they did that night, as it will be remembered, the three men facing death many times during the night.

According to Mr. Howard, the balloon was heavy due to the extra weight with three men aboard and the ice clinging on to it on all sides. The weight of the balloon and the gale finally caused the balloon to descend until the basket was almost touching the water. When it seemed very likely that the basket would sink in the water and the three men would be lost in the lake and drowned the pilot began ordering material thrown out. Two bags of sand that were left were cast out on the waters and the men began to throw everything away that would lessen the weight in the basket until they were left with nothing but their clothes.

When they came to the last resort, after the balloon had sunk again and was near the water line they began throwing away their clothing, all of which was heavy on account of the ice and water on them. In order to save themselves from drowning they were compelled to take off everything but their trousers and face the gale almost naked. Finally as absolutely the last resort, they cut their anchor loose as it dragged along in the water and pulled the balloon down.

Finally they saw the lights of Buffalo in the distance and then feared that their air craft would fall in that city. But they passed over it safely and began to descend. The balloon was traveling about 50 miles and hour and once when the basket hit the ground and tore a big hole in the earth, Tevis was thrown from the basket several feet through the air to the ground. He lay there stunned and finally picked his way to a farm house where he was taken to the town where the balloon finally landed.

The balloon kept on its course across the country tearing down fences until it struck a house, tearing down the kitchen and taking off a part of the roof. The basket caught in a tree and was held safely, while Corey climbed down to the ground. Mr. Howard, the pilot, was thrown out on the roof of the house and suffered a broken wrist bone and several painful wounds in his head.

The two men, numb and cold, half-naked and bleeding, finally made friends with the people, who believed that an explosion had taken place, and Mr. Howard hurried to the nearest postoffice before he changed his clothes, so that he could have his credentials signed by the postmaster and sent to New York at once to prove that he had made the record.

Mr. Howard, it will be remembered, while piloting the "Drifter," won the long distance event in the Indianapolis balloon races last summer and has gained a notable record with air crafts in his long line of experiences.

He travels during the winter months and is making preparations for several flights this summer.
